EX-REMUS HENCHMAN MURDERED IN HOTEL ROOM IN CINCINNATI

Describe Slaying As Party Sequel; Seek Suspect

CINCINNATI, O., May 1.—August Bruck, 34, described by police as a former aid of George Remus, ex-king of Cincinnati bootleggers, was found shot to death in a room in the Gibson Hotel here early today.

The body was found in Room No. 714, by Charles Wright, a night watchman, who entered the room when he found the door open.

Bruck had been shot three times, once in the head, in the abdomen and in the hand.

Hotel attaches said the room was rented Monday to a man registering as Joseph Plunkett of Cincinnati. Police said Plunkett also was associated with Remus in the latter's hey-day as rum-kings, several years ago.

An empty gun holster was strapped over Bruck's right shoulder and a .38 calibre, pearl-handled revolver which fitted the holster, was found in the bathroom.

Guests occupying rooms adjoining No. 714 said a party was held in Plunkett's room last night and police, upon entering, found three glasses containing liquor. One of the glasses, in the bathroom, near the revolver, had not been touched.

Bruck's body lay halfway between the bedroom and the bathroom, leading detectives to the conclusion that he was shot from behind as he walked towards the bathroom.

A letter found in Bruck's clothing was addressed to Mrs. August Bruck, Newport, Ky. Police immediately went to the address and the woman could not be found.

Coroner Fred C. Swing said a cut across Bruck's forehead indicated he had been struck with a revolver butt. He said Bruck apparently had been dead for two hours before his body was found.

Finding of the revolver on the bathroom floor lead police to believe that Bruck, believing a gun-battle was impending, drew the weapon to defend himself but was shot down before he could fire.

Hotel officials said no shots were heard and that to the best of their knowledge, a party was not held in the room.

An elevator operator told police that two women apparently great that had come from the vicinity of the room shortly after midnight, followed a few moments later by a man.

The man also appeared nervous and after tipping the elevator operator, hurriedly left the hotel.

A woman's coat was found on the bed and examination of the room revealed a fourth bullet had penetrated the wall.

Police, upon identifying Bruck's body, immediately ordered the arrest of men known to have been associated with the old Remus ring.

CONSIDER NEW BULL MARKET POSSIBLE; STOCKS ROCKETING

Lower Call Money Rate On Street Tues-day.

NEW YORK, May 1.—With United States Steel announcing the best quarter's business since 1918 and a drop in the call money rate from 14 to 10 per cent at yesterday's session, speculative Wall Street today was considering another extensive bull market as a possibility.

Several stocks rocketed to within striking distance of all time high prices at yesterday's session on the basis of the lower call money, the anticipated favorable report by U. S. Steel, and news of the organization of the first call money company of America with 100,000 shares of no par value, all subscribed.

Net earnings for the three months ending March 31 totaled $60,105,331, equal to $5.64 a share on the common stock after allowing for deductions, including preferred dividends. Net profits totaled $43,388,533 after all charges, compared to $35,178,624 for the quarter ended December 31, 1928. The board of directors of the corporation declared the regular quarterly dividends of $1.75 a share on both common and preferred stock.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY TO KEEP PERMANENT OFFICE IN CAPITAL

Kansas City Party Man Is Placed In Charge

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Democratic party is about to set up national headquarters here where the remaining political talents of the party can be co-ordinated and where the activities of the Hoover administration can be kept under strict observation.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, told the plan today and announced Jouett Shouse of Kansas City, a former McAdoo lieutenant and last year a loyal Smith man would be chairman of the Democratic national committee, in charge of the offices.

Raskob further announced the party deficit of $1,500,000 left over from the presidential election has been cut to $800,000 and will be down to $500,000 within two weeks.

He said it would be all paid off long before the end of the year.

This was welcome news to such Democrats as Cordell Hull, who as national chairman after the Harding-Cox campaign, often almost had to resort to dodging the U. S. marshal to keep party headquarters open here. However, those old-time Democrats who have been hoping Raskob would pay off the debt and go back to Wall Street were confronted with the firm announcement of the national chairman he had no intention of resigning.

His political patron, Governor Smith, appears to be through with national politics but Raskob does not feel disposed to follow Smith into retirement. On the contrary the appointment of Shouse as general party executive here indicated to politicians here a desire on the part of Raskob to bridge over the chasm between Smith and southern Democrats.

His function will be to consult Democratic leaders in congress, stimulate Democratic activities, bring the party issues to the attention of the country, and get set for the congressional elections next year.

STEAMER RACES TO PORT DISABLED

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 1.—While its crew bailed out the water which was rapidly filling its hold, the steamer Kadiak raced against time today to reach San Francisco Bay before it sank.

The Kadiak, manned by a crew of about twenty-five men, was accompanied by the Standard Oil tanker Charlie Watson which answered the tug's SOS call last night.

The tug set out for San Francisco Bay without halting to attach a tow rope from the Charlie Watson.

SCIENTISTS PROBE INTO FAMILY LIFE OF TINY COAL SPECK

Film Combustion; Effect Of Foam Is Analyzed

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—From "farm relief" and "kickless alcohol" through the revolutionizing potentialities of chemistry the seventy-seventh meeting of the American Chemical Society today paused to discuss fashion notes for furnace manufacturers.

Experiments describing the behavior of single specks of coal dust, each photographed as it fell through the heated enclosure of a tiny furnace, were conducted before a symposium on boiler room chemistry by H. K. Griffin, physicist, David F. Smith, of the Pittsburgh Experiment Station, U. S. Bureau of Mines, and J. R. Adams, research fellow of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The time required for each particle of solid fuel to be completely burned has been recorded through these experiments, it was explained, enabling science to acquire new knowledge in a heretofore mystifying field.

The scientists also reported the perfection of a method for fixing the velocity of combustion and the space necessary for liberating unit quantities of heat of different fuels. They said this will have a direct bearing on the scientific design of furnaces for burning powdered fuel.

The experiments were conducted in a furnace thirty-six inches wide and six inches in diameter. Through a mica window on a photographic film wound on a revolving drum inside a camera the complete track of each burning particle was recorded.

Prof. C. W. Foulk, department of chemistry of Ohio State University, reporting his researches in "liquid film formation," explained a new theory of foam.

"Even man's social nature is influenced by foams, to such an extent that it sometimes demands a stable foam as in beer and soda water, and sometimes demands an unstable one as in champagne and ginger ale," he said.

His theory, while an attempt to explain all foams, from humble soapsuds to those used in the separation of ores by floatation, was emphasized as having a more immediate bearing on the foams on boiler water.

Prof. Foulk attributes the formation of these foams to the resistance of surface films of different compositions to a force tending to produce homogeneity.

"The thermal effects of boiler scale," were reported by Everett P. Partidge, holder of the Detroit Edison Company fellowship for chemical research at the University of Michigan, and Alfred H. White, professor of chemical engineering at the same university.

The scientists, numbering 1,500 from all parts of the country, today will hear and see, for the first time in the organization's history, an experiment performed through sound motion pictures.

The "talkie," titled "Oil Films On Water," will feature Dr. Irving Langmuir, president of the General Electric Company's research laboratories.

The "talkie" has saved the scientists expense and time in not having to transport equipment and materials from one place to another. It was pointed out that sound pictures may have an important part in the elimination of treatises in the future.

MEXICAN REVOLT IS NEARING ITS DEATH; PLAN FINAL DRIVE

Many Rebel Chiefs Have Fled Into United States

MEXICO CITY, May 1.—The Mexican revolution stood on wobbling legs today, deserted by many of its leaders and held practically motionless by federal troops which closed in from two sides.

After the long, tedious march through El Pulpito Canyon, Gen. Juan Almazan had arrived within six miles of Los Asoles, the main rebel encampment, and announced his intention of cutting off the rebel retreat to Agua Prieta, in the northernmost section of Sonora.

The west coast federal army, directed by Minister of War Plutarco Elias Calles, still was advancing from the south, and a final drive on the remaining rebel forces appeared imminent.

Gen. Marcelo Caraveo and Gen. Trevino, the latter considered one of the ablest rebel generals, commanded the insurgents at Los Asoles, unofficial advices said.

With the exception of those officers, only two rebel leaders remained in Sonora today. They were J. Gonzalo Escobar, commander in chief of the insurgents, and Gen. Roberto Cruz, former Mexico City inspector of police. The other generals have surrendered, or have been captured and executed.

CINCINNATI, O., May 1.—John Raso, 48, must serve life in the penitentiary for the murder of his divorced wife, Thomasina, 43, who was shot to death Dec. 8 while enroute to a symphony concert. FAIRCHILD TO FACE PERJURY

GENEVA, Ill., May 1.—Eugene Boyd Fairchild, youthful "dry" investigator, must face trial in June on a charge of perjury in connection with his false affidavit which led to the killing of Mrs. Lillian De King of Aurora, by "dry" raiders.

Fairchild, who swore to a purchase of liquor at the De King home which he admittedly did not make, was indicted by the Kane County grand jury which refused to take action against Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith who killed Mrs. De King after clubbing her husband, Joe De King.

A coroner's jury had suggested that Smith be held on a charge of manslaughter and attorneys for the De King family had demanded murder and accessory to murder indictment of Smith and his aides.

Fairchild was arrested before the indictment was announced. He was released on $1,500 bail. He had been released previously on a charge of perjury when it was found that his false affidavit did not contain the words "so help me God," which were necessary to make it a sworn statement.

Young man, who has made a name in opera.

THEY WERE NOT DISAPPOINTED

With a rich, charming voice she won the plaudits of her "home town" and captured the hearts of Clevelanders.

It was Miss Aves' debut in the role of Santuzza—so the critics said—and she made the most of the opportunity.

There was a colorful demonstration as she concluded her final number—for Norwalk the audience clapped their hands.

NORWALK CAME by the hundreds—they heard, they say, they marveled.

She is Dreda Aves, Norwalk choir singer, who thrilled thousands of Clevelanders last night in "Cavalleria Rusticana" at Public Hall.

It was the second night in the city's Metropolitan Opera Company season.

NORWALK CAME by the hundreds—they heard, they say, they marveled.

They praised the little girl who only a few years ago was chanting hymns in the choir loft of a Norwalk church.

In the immense audience that nearly filled the huge auditorium, were former teachers and neighbors of the girl.

Her offering brought a record-breaking second night crowd.

AKRON, May 1.—A 24-year-old youth known only as Jim, was found murdered in a shack on the Kenmore Dump today. He had been slain with an ax.

Police, after an investigation, said they believed bandits were the murderers.

The youth was employed recently to work on the dump. He appeared with two men who left a few days later.

The interior of the shack was blood spattered and in disorder over to her father.

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—Ruth Ludwick, 18, daughter of the Rev. L. G. Ludwick of Lancaster and Corning who was arrested here on a vagrancy charge, was returned to her home today. The girl came to Columbus to marry Private John Tomlin, 22, of Fort mal statement:

"The employment of minors, either boys or girls, as aides in securing evidence in liquor cases, is unwarranted and will not be tolerated as a means of apprehending liquor law violators."

"I have had no opportunity to investigate the particular facts in this case, but I state this as a policy that will be rigidly enforced."

The governor added, informally, that he "wanted there to be no doubt as to his attitude." The question of whether the men involved were guilty or innocent has nothing to do with the method used in obtaining evidence, he said.

REFERRED TO BEETHAM

The entire case will be taken up with State Prohibition Commissioner Rupert R. Beetham when the latter returns to his office next week, the governor said.

The governor declined to indicate whether he would ask the removal of the two agents, but he said "a thorough investigation would be made."

After denouncing the two dry officers, Commissioner Horner turned to the two girls.

"It is too bad," he said, "that this court has no jurisdiction over your actions."

"If you value your good names, you'll stay away from liquor raiding parties."

Miss Grunlon told of meeting the agents "properly" in a Lancaster confectionery.

"There was Mr. Cole, Mr. Little, Miss Walton and myself," she said.

"When we got to Poole's house I was given $2 to go in and buy two half-pints of whiskey."

The girl testified she made the purchase from Poole and that Frankhauser brought in the liquor.

It was while she was being questioned by the defense attorney, J. M. Hengst, that she admitted having gone on a motor trip with Cole and Little to Athens.

TOLD OF WINE PARTY

"Isn't it true?" Hengst asked, "that after this trip you told Lancaster people you took a drink of whiskey every time you saw a white horse?"

"No," she replied. "We didn't have whiskey. It was wine."

Miss Walton testified she "took drinks" but "not enough to get tight."

Both girls denied they were paid but later admitted receiving the phonograph and ukulele.

Both Poole and Frankhauser denied they sold liquor to the girls.

Charges of conspiracy against Albert Nutter and George Chapman, both of Lancaster, were dismissed by Commissioner Horner in another hearing when arresting officers failed to appear to testify. Horner had warned that this procedure would be taken if the arresting officers failed to appear on schedule.

It was recalled today that during Governor Vic Donahey's administration, A. Propst of Dayton, then deputy prohibition commissioner, was dismissed for using a woman as a "decoy" in arresting Harry Nutt, then marshal of Westerville. Both Little and Cole are considered experienced officers. Little, as federal agent, played a prominent role in the recent "cleanup" in Steubenville and he was said to have been the "under cover" agent who helped bring about the arrest of former State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley.

Miss Grunlon and Miss Walton were back at their homes in Lancaster today.

Parents of both girls, when interviewed in Lancaster, said they did not know Cole and Little were dry agents, nor did they know their daughters had accompanied the agents.

Miss Grunlon is the daughter of Samuel Grunlon, former instructor in the commerce department at Ohio State University and now an interior decorator.

Miss Walton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walton. News of her alleged part in the liquor raid prostrated Mrs. Walton who was placed under the care of a physician.

Both girls today were at odds as to what really happened in their meeting with Cole and Little.

They reassured that Herman Grunlon, Catherine's brother, had accompanied them on their trip to Athens but Grunlon denied he was with them.

What's become of all the homely women?

WOMEN simply aren't homely any more. You meet plain women, yes... but their smart, trim air is the envy of many who are only beautiful.

In the old days when a girl gave promise of becoming "hopelessly plain," she was frankly informed of the fact to save her from hurt pride in later years. She remained frumpy and tried to convince herself that she didn't care!

Not today!

Advertising has played a remarkable part in making every woman attractive.

It has taught her to use the beauty and charm that are her heritage, regardless of the shape of her features. Her teeth, her hair, her hands, her complexion, her clothes, and even her erect, athletic figure have been "brought out" by methods constantly before her in advertising.

The great beauty and style specialists of the country have been her consultants, as they are yours, if you are taking fullest advantage of the opportunities before you every day, in the advertising columns of this newspaper.

INSTEAD of exercise

Millions of busy men and women are learning the secret of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime!

Cascarets give your bowels as much real exercise as they get from an hour with the boxing gloves! Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things produce only mechanical or chemical action. They weaken your bowels.

Every time you use Cascarets your bowels become stronger. They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this! That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million boxes a year, and people everywhere depend on them to relieve headache, biliousness, dizziness, bloating, indigestion, constipation, etc.

"BAD YEAR FOR DOG RACING" CLAIM OF COOPER SPOKESMAN

"This is going to be a bad year for dog racing in Ohio."

This statement made several weeks ago by a spokesman for the state administration has been reiterated by the state executive department with regard to the prospect that a dog racing track is to be opened within the village of Fairfield this summer.

It is even said that the militia may be used to stop gambling if it becomes in evidence.

It has also been learned from a source considered authentic, a source that has hinted strongly that dog racing is not to be permitted, that local officials are expected by the state administration to strictly enforce the antigambling laws.

A direct statement bearing on the situation has not been made by Governor Cooper but persons close to him are freely predicting that the position of the present administration will be against dog racing. It is also said upon good authority that previous news stories emanating from spokesmen for the administration have received approval of the chief executive.

One confidant of the governor, himself in a position of authority, whose services would probably be required should it be found necessary for the state to intervene against dog racing promoters, is quoted as follows:

"Stories concerning the attitude of the administration on dog racing sent out from Columbus have had a very salutary effect. We expect officials to do their duty or know the reason why. There will be no temporizing. If necessary, the militia will be used to enforce the law against gambling. We have no authority to stop anyone from spending money in building a racing plant, but we can and will stop gambling if it is started. Any one investing money in that sort of enterprise in Ohio is putting himself in the position of losing on his investment."

This warning was a direct result of information received that contracts had been awarded for the construction of the dog track at Fairfield and that grading work had actually been started.

Observers are of the opinion that the proposed Fairfield track will serve as a test case concerning the governor's attitude at the same time inaugurating a court battle to decide once and for all the legality of ordinances, such as the measures passed by the village council of Fairfield, attempting to legally dog racing and exacting a license fee of $200 a day, the proceeds to be applied in liquidating the village debt of $30,000.

Although at present others are doing all the talking for the administration, it is confidently expected that the governor will himself state his position in the matter without hesitation when the time comes for action and not words.

The spokesman said that this is merely an ultimatum to racing promoters to quit while the quitting is good. "We are giving warning concerning what may be expected. Those who do not choose to accept the warning may learn later that they have made a mistake."

GOVERNOR WILL NOT HAVE TO NAME MUNICIPAL JUDGE HERE

Although Governor Cooper announced Tuesday that he intends to ask Attorney General Bettman for a ruling as to whether he has authority to appoint common pleas and municipal court judges to the new courts created in bills passed by the recent general assembly, City Solicitor J. A. Finney declared the governor will not be required and will not be asked to appoint a judge for Xenia's new municipal court, created by the legislature.

The question of whether he can fill the municipal courts by appointments, has already been raised, the governor said, adding that when the new common pleas courts are established it is believed efforts to have him make the appointments will be made.

Nine new common pleas and three municipal judges were created by the assembly.

City Solicitor Finney said, however, the raising of this question has no local application inasmuch as a provision of the bill creating the municipal court for Xenia provides that it will not start to function until January 1, 1930, thus allowing for the judge to be elected in November this year.

The legislature took the attitude that the judges should not be appointed by the governor but should be elected in November, 1930. Provisions in the various court bills authorizing the governor to make the appointments were stricken out by the house of representatives.

Although at present others are doing all the talking for the administration, it is confidently expected that the governor will himself state his position in the matter without hesitation when the time comes for action and not words.

The spokesman said that this is merely an ultimatum to racing promoters to quit while the quitting is good. "We are giving warning concerning what may be expected. Those who do not choose to accept the warning may learn later that they have made a mistake."

Nooks was lying down in the rear of the car with a loaded shot gun beside him but he made no effort to use it and did not resist arrest. Robert, a brother of John Nooks was also in the car, which was driven by Alfred Dillard, who told the officers they were just about to start on a hunting excursion. Dillard was not held.

"BAD YEAR FOR DOG RACING" CLAIM OF COOPER SPOKESMAN

"This is going to be a bad year for dog racing in Ohio."

This statement made several weeks ago by a spokesman for the state administration has been reiterated by the state executive department with regard to the prospect that a dog racing track is to be opened within the village of Fairfield this summer.

It is even said that the militia may be used to stop gambling if it becomes in evidence.

It has also been learned from a source considered authentic, a source that has hinted strongly that dog racing is not to be permitted, that local officials are expected by the state administration to strictly enforce the anti-gambling laws.

A direct statement bearing on the situation has not been made by Governor Cooper but persons close to him are freely predicting that the position of the present administration will be against dog racing. It is also said upon good authority that previous news stories emanating from spokesmen for the administration have received approval of the chief executive.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SUBMISSION TO GOD—I will bear the indignation of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me: he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.—Micah 7:9.

OFFERING REAL SERVICE TO FARMERS

Consider the farm relief bill recently passed by the lower branch of congress.

It discards the scheme of valorization, or of government price fixing for farm products, or any form of utilizing government authority or resources to create artificiality a domestic price and to sustain it by disposing in foreign markets of an arbitrarily determined surplus at a loss. It does not propose to promote overproduction by placing a premium on surplus crops. Neither does it favor waste and inefficiency by guaranteeing the farmer a profit irrespective of the cost of production.

But it does go the limit in offering government aid—financial, advisory, educational, fact-finding service—to the farm industry to so control its product as to command the greatest possible advantage in the markets of the world.

Under this bill, should it become law, the government would, by generous and timely loans, make it possible for the farmer to hold his product for a favorable market. It is because the producer of foodstuffs has neither the credit nor the facilities to store his products that he often takes an inadequate profit or a loss.

The house bill conforms to President Hoover's program of farm relief and would receive his signature were it to finally pass congress. A few self-exploiting politicians should not have the power to substitute a less acceptable measure.

Speaking of his first ride in a dirigible, a reporter says:

"The ground tilts away, and sooner than in an airplane the whole world opens out below. You see the logic of streets and railways, factories and parks, and the tall buildings in the center of town. Everything is suddenly explained."

So here is another reason for flying. Our anthill life here below seems chaotic. Whether in country or city, ordinarily we can't see much sense or order to it. There are just a lot of buildings and streets and rails jumbled together, and people crawling around aimlessly. But from a height, the scene is found to have perspective, meaning, purpose.

BUSINESS AND BEAUTY

Too bad so much beauty has to give way before the growth of modern cities. How many streets have you seen in which magnificent trees have been ruined by the treatment of telephone linemen, or utterly destroyed by street widening projects? The question is whether we are paying too high a price for what is commonly called progress.

AS TO LAWS

Some laws that seem highly plausible and reasonable are not so reasonable in practice. The law to be found in some states that children must attend school until they are 18 often proves not only a great hardship but a mistake. Science has long since proved there are many children, unfortunately, who are incapable of progressive learning up to and including the age of 18. Keeping such children in school deprives them of useful work and the opportunity of making a living or helping their families to make a living. They are kept on the taxpayers' payrolls to no purpose. Schooling should depend on the pupil and his capacity, and not on law.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

The writer asked a bright young girl if she attended Sunday school. The answer was no.

"I am not going until they improve the Sunday schools," she said.

Food for thought and cause for investigation here. Does the average Sunday school lesson, and the average Sunday school teacher, meet the problems of modern youth? What are Sunday schools doing to help modern boys and girls adjust themselves to a changed and difficult world? We need not be entirely discouraged. The Sunday school has been improved—greatly improved. The type of religious teaching and training is of vastly greater importance and more suited to human needs than it once was. But there is much improvement yet to be had. With more trained teachers, and with a more completely modern viewpoint, teachers and Sunday school lessons can be made to minister to you as it is today.

He began with the Western Electric company in Chicago in 1899 and rose to assistant manager by 1904. From 1905 to 1911 he was assistant to the president of the Trust Company of America, New York City. He was head of C. E. Mitchell & Co., investments, from 1911 to 1918. He was recently made chairman of the board of directors. He is also president of the National City Safe Deposit company, and Banque Nationale de la Republique d'Haiti and chairman of the board of the International Banking corporation. He is a director of several other corporations.

If congress would eliminate the tax on gains from the sale of stocks, many who are unwilling to quit the market because of the large sums they would have to pay the government would sell, and this would end the present credit inflation. They are now borrowing so that they may hold on.

The law has introduced scarcity values in stocks that have spelled high prices, it has created an enormous increase in the loan account. Under these tax laws, and particularly with the surtax operating at it does in the higher brackets, investors and speculators who have large profits in securities have been and are unwilling to liquidate and take profit, but go on holding these securities, leaning on the banks in order to do so.

Not alone the taxpayer of very large means but practically all of the millions of security holders who are taxed in the brackets up to eight per cent would be benefited by the proposal. Many stocks have increased in value in no small part because holders are unwilling to sell and pay the tax. Abilities incurred, even though prices may have gone to excessive levels. The current buyers are therefore forced to pay higher prices by reason of the tax. It is thus apparent that there are two factors involved, namely, the establishment of an artificial price level and the constant increase of the loan account.

If one could check up on the people leaning on the credit structure, it would be found that there are funds for the carrying of securities an overwhelming number of holders who because of this tax do not sell. In our daily experience we find it to be common that men who are holding securities and desire to purchase additional securities in the market which they consider as having an intrinsic value in excess of the market price, do not feel that they can sell what which they have, but in the satisfaction of this desire they borrow either through their brokers or directly through their bankers funds necessary for such purchases, thereby placing added burdens on the credit structure.

HOOVER: "THOSE WERE THE DAYS!"*How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

We have talked about types and we have talked about beauty—oh, a great deal about beauty in general—and about health. But I have not written for a long time about individuality in beauty—which is after all, quite important.

I was reminded of it reading again just today some words of Harrison Fisher, the well-known artist. He says:

"I am frequently asked 'What are some of the things that improve the general attractiveness of woman?' They are, first, individuality; second, proper use of cosmetics; third, harmony of colors; fourth, emphasizing one's good points; fifth, avoiding extremes.

Although a beautiful face is the first thing I look for in a woman who would pose for me, still, beauty in features is not so important.

It is rather the general effect of beauty—the ensemble that counts. A woman can have a clear skin, beautiful hair, a nice figure and the right clothes, and yet not seem to be beautiful."

Personally I hold no brief for homeliness—I think beauty is much more to be desired. But I think, also, that individuality is the spice of beauty's life—just as variety is said to be the spice of life in general.

Don't try to look like someone else! In these days of somewhat standardized fashions it may seem a little difficult not to dress like other women. But within the styles you can find enough variation to suit your individuality. And you can always adapt a style to please yourself.

Because I agree heartily with Mr. Fisher I am taking his words as my text, and I shall talk about one point that he emphasizes each day. Individuality, first.

I wish I could impress strongly enough upon every woman how much she needs to achieve individuality in her good looks. I consider a woman more of a success in beauty the more she looks like herself—her most attractive self—and the less she looks like any other charming or attractive woman.

But beyond clothes—go in for individuality in hair dressing and in make-ups. Don't choose a certain more or hair dressing because it looks well on your neighbor, or because your favorite cinema star is wearing it. Choose it if your star—because it is a style which suits your face and profile and personality, better than any other.

And in make-up use the same good sense. Don't pick out a rosy shade of rouge because your best friend wears it—or because some famous actress has endorsed it with her testimonial. It may not suit you at all. Perhaps your skin has a dusky orange tinge, or a golden, creamy glow—and a bright orange or coral rouge is the color you should wear.

Consider all these things in planning your ensemble of good looks. Always try to be as different as you can, but remember to stay within the confines of good taste and beauty.

Employers are pretty well sold on the idea that they profit by good wages, because their own workmen furnish a market for their products."

All right in theory. But in practice?

Henry Ford was the original exponent of the doctrine that high pay benefits the employer. Some time ago I had a curiosity to know how organized labor's definition of high wages compares with Henry Ford's; so I asked President James O'Connell of the metal trades. He says:

"Ford," he answered, "pays something less than the union scale for machinists. But then, Ford's men are not machinists. As semi-skilled laborers, they are paid pretty well."

It seems, then, that Henry Ford really does believe in good wages for robots—good for robots; not so good for men.

The commerce department's recently-completed "census of manufacturers" likewise tells a story which scarcely implies that labor is holding its financial own in the machine age.

Among much else, the figures show, notably, three things:

1. The value of raw materials, as they enter factory doors.

2. The value of finished products as they emerge.

3. The difference between these two values—known as "the value added by manufacture"—to be divided between boss and worker.

In 1921 the boss' share was 55.3 per cent; the worker's 44.7. Thenceforward the worker's percentage steadily declined. In 1927—the last period covered—boss received 61; the worker 39. It was only a 5.7 per cent reduction for the worker in six years, but it meant the transfer of $1,572,345,000 from his pay envelope to the boss' bank account.

SUGGESTIONS*CARE FOR VACUUM CLEANER

The vacuum cleaner requires a little attention once in a while.

There are three things which you must do for your cleaner if you expect it to give you efficient and uninterrupted service.

First, keep the dirt bag emptied.

A safe rule is to empty it out once a week, regularly. A dust bag heavy with dirt cuts down the efficiency of your cleaner tremendously—about 35 per cent when the bag is one-fourth full.

Second, you must give the motor an occasional drink of oil, unless your cleaner is of the ball-bearing type, which requires no oil.

An unoiled machine deteriorates and wears out quickly.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Geared up to their present speed, American industries are manufacturing more goods than the country needs.

Radicals say it can be accomplished only by the overthrow of capitalism—a revolution—a soviet form of government, or some such thing—a new civilization, in short.

This remedy—even supposing it would work—is too desperate for the great majority of us. It is now, anyway. If unemployment grew bad enough, who knows?

The American Federation of Labor urges a far more moderate program—

A five-day week, followed, if needful, by a shorter working day, continually trimmed down and down, until a given piece of work requires a sufficient number of men to employ everybody.

However, fewer working hours, for the same money, is one way of saying—

Higher wages.

With man-power so plentiful that hours must be cut to minimum, can labor enforce such a demand?

Besides, intelligence in a worker is no longer an asset. It used to take brains to turn out a finished article; it hardly takes any today, to feed raw material to a hopper.

SUBMISSION TO GOD—I will bear the indignation of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me; he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.—Micah 7:9.

OFFERING REAL SERVICE TO FARMERS

Consider the farm relief bill recently passed by the lower branch of congress.

It discards the scheme of valorization, or of government price fixing for farm products, or any form of utilizing government authority or resources to create artificially a domestic price and to sustain it by disposing in foreign markets of an arbitrarily determined surplus at a loss. It does not propose to promote overproduction by placing a premium on surplus crops. Neither does it favor waste and inefficiency by guaranteeing the farmer a profit irrespective of the cost of production.

But it does go the limit in offering government aid—financial, advisory, educational, fact-finding service—to the farm industry to so control its product as to command the greatest possible advantage in the markets of the world.

Under this bill, should it become law, the government would, by generous and timely loans, make it possible for the farmer to hold his product for a favorable market. It is because the producer of foodstuffs has neither the credit nor the facilities to store his products that he often takes an inadequate profit or a loss.

The house bill conforms to President Hoover's program of farm relief and would receive his signature were it to finally pass congress. A few self-exploiting politicians should not have the power to substitute a less acceptable measure.

Speaking of his first ride in a dirigible, a reporter says:

"The ground tilts away, and sooner than in an airplane the whole world opens out below. You see the logic of streets and railways, factories and parks, and the tall buildings in the center of town. Everything is suddenly explained."

So here is another reason for flying. Our anthill life here below seems chaotic. Whether in country or city, ordinarily we can't see much sense or order to it. There are just a lot of buildings and streets and rails jumbled together, and people crawling around aimlessly. But from a height, the scene is found to have perspective, meaning, purpose.

We have talked about types and we have talked about beauty—oh, a great deal about beauty in general—and about health. But I have not written for a long time about individuality in beauty—which is after all, quite important.

I was reminded of it reading again just today some words of Harrison Fisher, the well-known artist. He says:

"I am frequently asked 'What are some of the things that improve the general attractiveness of woman?' They are, first, individuality; second, proper use of cosmetics; third, harmony of colors; fourth, emphasizing one's good points; fifth, avoiding extremes."

Long ago in France there was a case very much like this. A famous courtesan was returning from the court where he had been mingling with countless beautiful women. His wife was plain, but he greeted her cordially: "My dear, you don't know how good it is to look at a homely face."

Personally, I hold no brief for homeliness—I think beauty is much more to be desired. But I think, also, that individuality is the spice of beauty's life—just as variety is to be the spice of life in general.

GRAF ZEPPELIN PREPARES FOR SECOND U. S. FLIGHT

With a sailing date for her second trip to the United States set at about May 7, the Graf Zeppelin, world's largest dirigible, is being put in shape for the flight at Friedrichshafen, Germany. European display managers are said to be preparing the proper setting for the latest Paris creations to be brought here via the air route. Representatives of many manufacturers are to be aboard. Photo shows the big dirigible with insets, Dr. Hugo Eckener, its commander, and a close-up of the cabin.

HAHN FORSAKES TRACK FOR FARM Asks $20,000 for Love

Lloyd Hahn, who until eight months ago was regarded as one of the greatest milers in the world, has joined the back-to-nature movement, hung up his track shoes for good, he says, and is now spending his entire time working his 640-acre farm near Falls City, Neb. Hahn, who is 29, recently inherited $100,000 and is satisfied to rest on his laurels. He is shown here behind his plow.

ADVISORY JURY IN "WHOOPEE CASE"

Here is Chicago's "whoopee jury," called to try Mrs. Jane Liston, mother of 15-year-old Charlotte, who was a member of the auto-moonshine party in which a young boy lost his life. Mrs. Liston has been charged with contributing to the delinquency of her daughter by not keeping her in school. Seated in the picture, left to right, are Mrs. Charles Moody, Mrs. George V. McIntyre, Mrs. Anna L. Smith and Mrs. William Harrison Cade; standing are Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackridge and Mrs. Alfred O. Erickson, all prominent in public welfare work in Chicago. They are only advisory jurors, since women are not permitted to serve on juries in Illinois.

Vows Her Allegiance to Torch Slayer

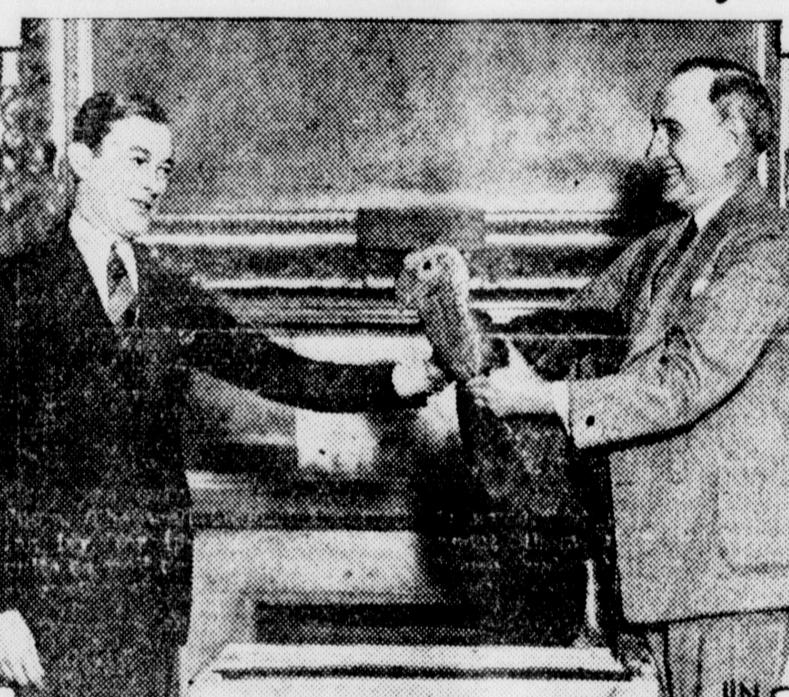

Mrs. H. Colin Campbell, wife of the "torch slayer," shown at her Elizabeth, N. J., home with her daughters, Virginia and Dorothy, is beginning to weaken under the strain of the trouble which has come to her. At the Second Presbyterian Church recently, services were interrupted when a woman who collapsed and her two children screamed in terror, proved to be Mrs. Campbell and her children. At the same time the brave woman steadfastly denies the truth of the charges against her husband and firmly believes he will be freed before long.

Torch Slayer Crime Trail Grows Wider

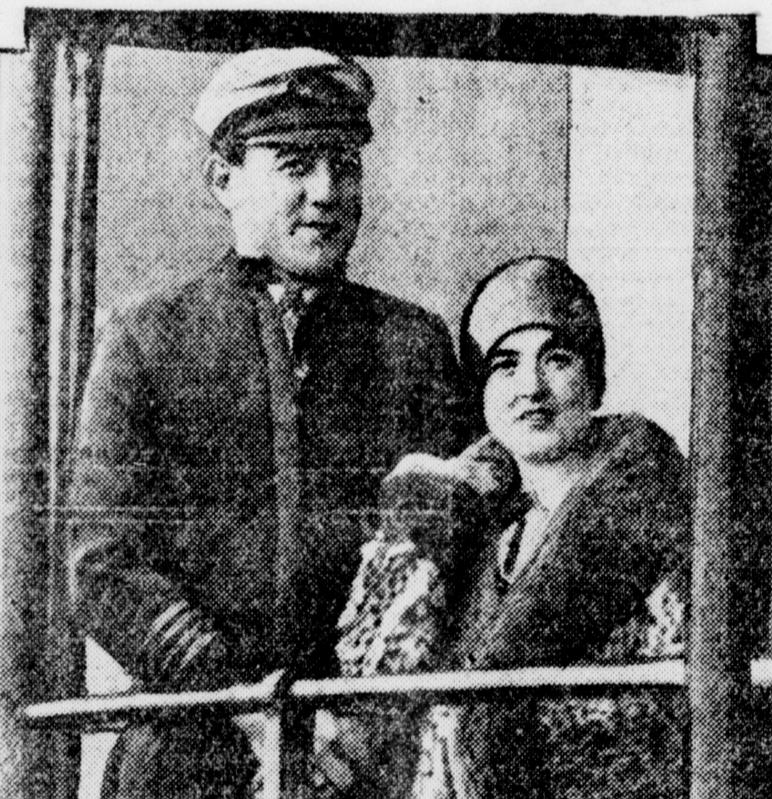

Since connecting Henry C. Campbell, self-confessed torch slayer, with Henry C. Close, believed to be his real name, an amazing record of "bluebeard" crimes is being brought to the attention of the New Jersey police. The photo (left) was forwarded from San Francisco, where Close was apprehended in 1904. One year later he had shaved the goatee off and sported a natty mustache. Now the suave fiend (right) is faced with the possibility of being connected with the axe murder of Ada Swanson in Omaha, Neb., in 1925.

Presents Gift to New York Mayor Ambassador Returns

Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Star-Telegram and Record-Telegram of Fort Worth, Texas, presents his old friend Jimmy Walker with two 45-pound turkeys on his visit to New York for the annual Newspaper Convention. Carter and the Mayor became good friends at the Houston convention last year, when the Texas publisher entertained him in honor.

Targets of Coast Guard Boat

Captain W. J. Keating and his wife were imperiled when Coast Guard cutter Seneca shelled the collier T. A. D. Jones of New Haven. They allege that the Seneca fired three shots at them and then searched their craft as suspected rum runner. The owners are said to have intentions of protesting to the Government.

Quiz Woman Hater's Young Wife

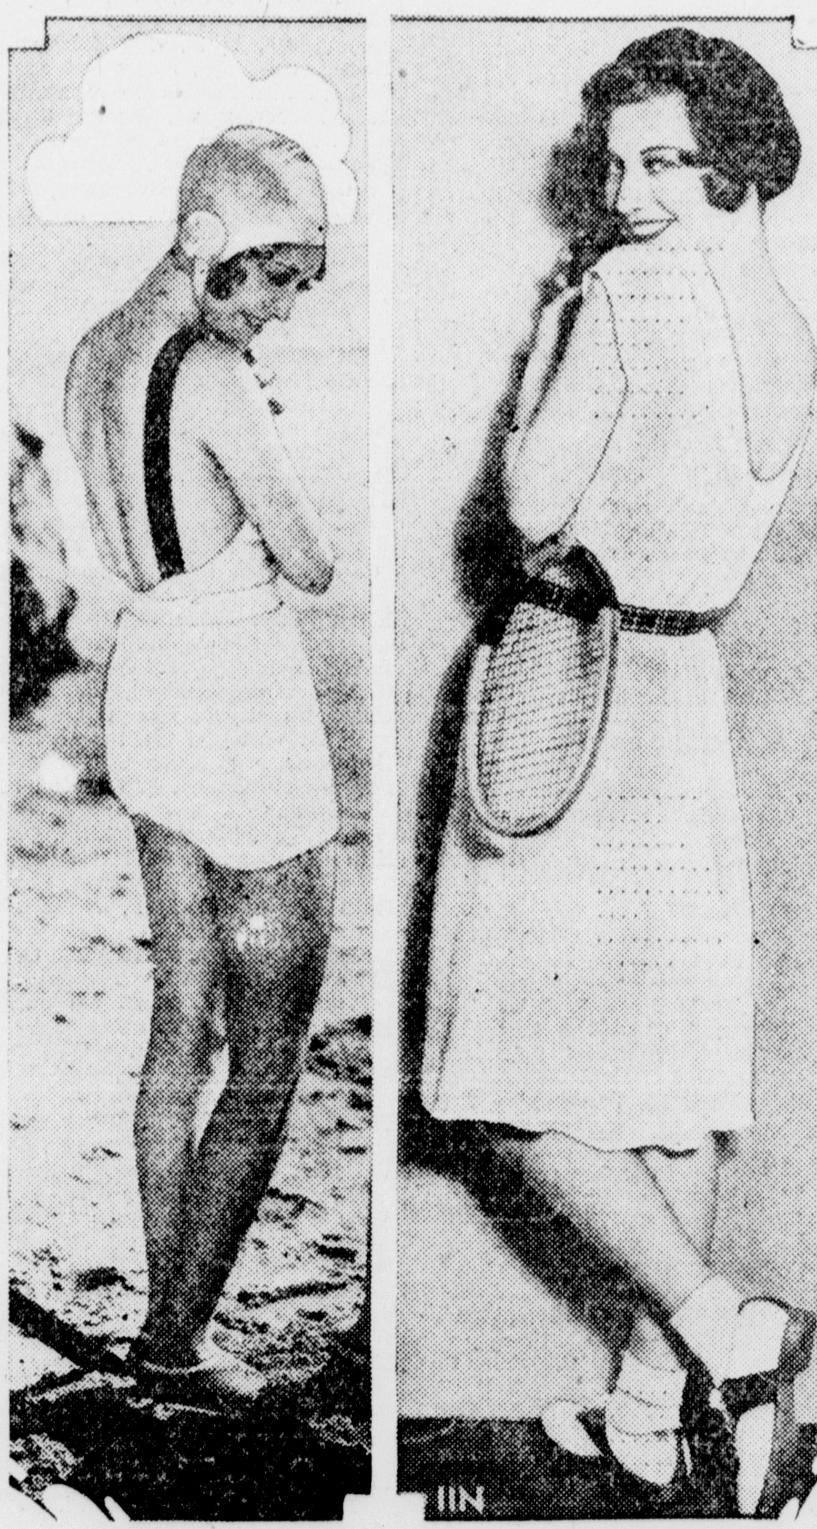

Mrs. Oliver Beardslee of Stratford, Conn., is being questioned at length by Bridgeport, Conn., police regarding her connection with the mysterious killing of her husband, Oliver Beardslee, scion of Mayflower family. Papa Heflin Forgives His Son

Everything seems to be jake between Senator Thomas Heflin and his son, Junior, who gave the big town of New York a real thrill during his short visit after arriving from Panama. Thomas, Jr., was feeling fairly well as he passed through the gates to the train to take him to Washington, D. C., except for apprehensions as to how father would take reports of his escapades. Senator Heflin defends his son, saying that enemies are trying to hurt his, Senior's, position.

Back to Nature With Backless Duds

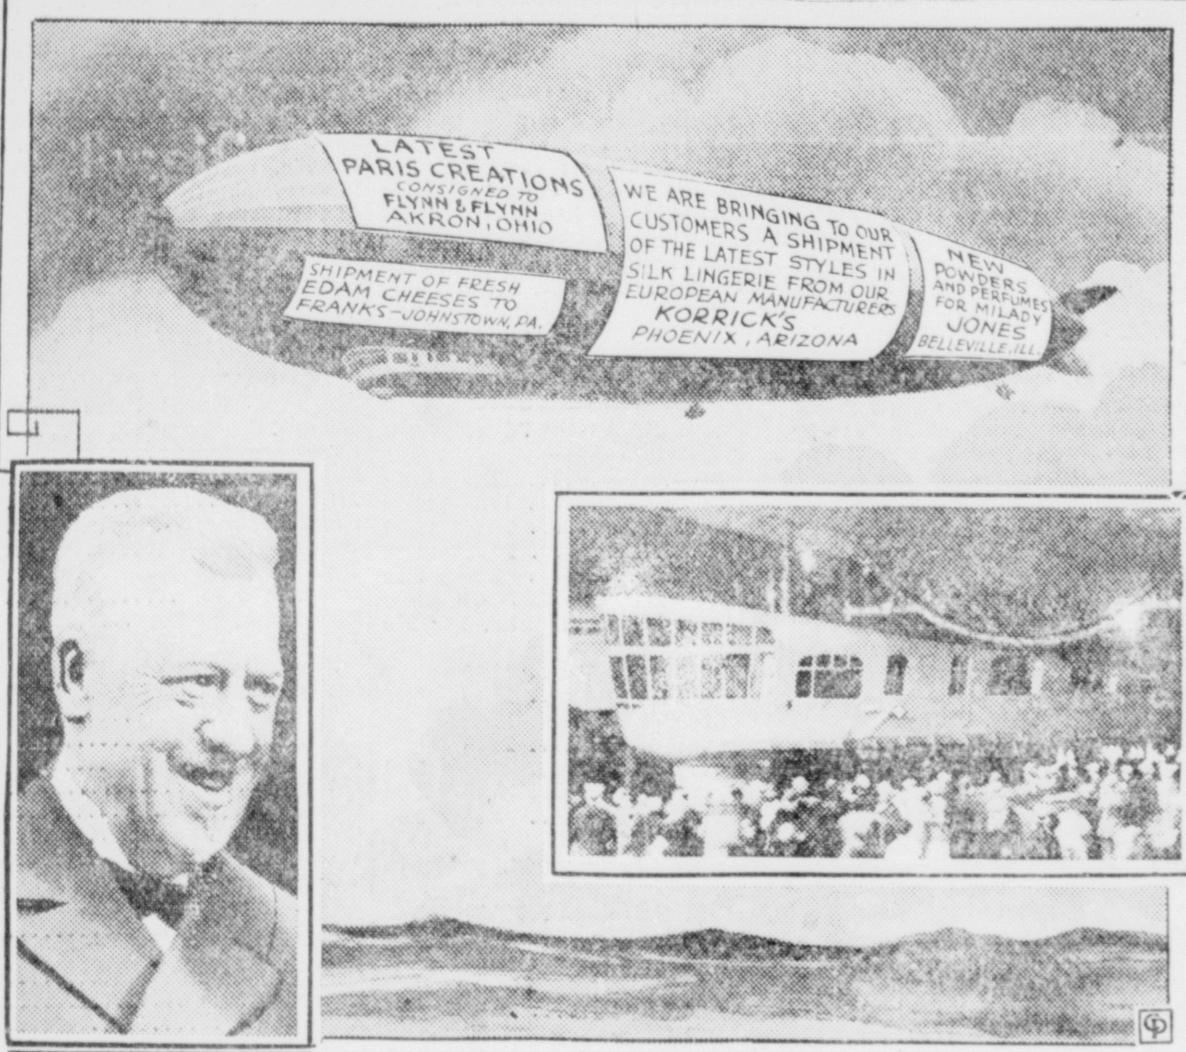

Dorothy Sebastian, left, shows how a girl can get a gorgeous Palm Beach tan without trekking all the way to Florida. You can even get it at your favorite swimmin' hole, with one of these backless suits. Hers is a very striking one, in black and white. Joan Crawford, on the right, says you can even accomplish the same thing on any old tennis court. The cutie little trick she's wearing is a white washable "twish" material. The Scotch plaid belt and red beret give a vivid touch of color to the costume, and brings that luscious brown skin right into relief.

ANTIOCH PLAYERS TO PRESENT LIGHT
OPERA MAY 16-17

"The Yeomen of the Guard", a light opera, will be presented by the Antioch Players May 16 and 17 at the Yellow Springs Opera House.

The opera will be the third annual musical and dramatic production given by the Players since their debut in the field of opera in 1927. The first presentation was "H. M. S. Pinafore" which was a success and inspired the students to present "The Pirates of Penzance" the following spring. With this year's production, light opera has definitely taken a regular place beside the purely dramatic offerings of the Players in their yearly programs.

Miss Imogene H. Putnam will be in charge of the production, assisted by Miss Ava Hilber, musical director.

Because of the elimination of one of the plays which the Antioch Players planned to give this year, holders of season tickets will be given the opportunity of attending this production. Season tickets will be honored at the Opera House on Friday evening, May 17. Those wishing to attend the performance on Thursday may exchange their tickets at Weiss and Wead's store in Yellow Springs, where single tickets for both nights are now on sale.

MAYOR STOKES MAY SAY WHETHER TROY TO HAVE BLUE LAW

Whether Sunday blue laws will be enforced in Troy may be decided by Mayor George H. Stokes, former city auditor of Xenia.

Following the arrest of Christian F. Pfister, manager of the Troy Amusement Co., who was subsequently fined $25 and costs for operating a motion picture show on Sunday, a demand was made upon Mayor Stokes that he order the closing of all business houses on Sunday.

Announcing that he would not make another effort to open his playhouse on Sunday, Pfister promptly pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before the mayor.

A petition signed by a majority of business men of the city asking that Sunday movies be permitted inasmuch as Troy residents were visiting other cities to witness

Church Differences Prevent Marriage

Unfortunately for King Boris (above) of Bulgaria, who wants to wed the Italian Princess Giovanna (above), his country's constitution stipulates that the heir to the throne must be a member of the Bulgarian Church. This ruling furnishes the barrier here, inasmuch as the Pope refuses the Princess a dispensation to marry a non-Catholic unless offspring of the union will be reared in the Roman Catholic faith. These circumstances have given rise to rumors of an alliance between the King and the Grand Duchess Kira Vladimirovitch, 19-year-old daughter of Grand Duke Cyril.
